CINCINNATI, December 31 .- The ice in the river here broke this morning about 4 o'clock, and sunk the steamer Mountain Boy, owned by David Gibson & Co., of this city. The steamer Messenger had this city. The steamer Messenger had her cabin and lender broken on the lar-board side, and her engine was knocked out of line. She had a full cargo on board, which is being removed. The Leonora and the Emma Floyd, an old wreck worth about $1,000, and a number of coal barges and flats were also carried

The Grey Eagle has her guards smashed and is crowded on the wharf oat. The Leonors was owned by the Louisville Mail Line Company, was landed at the distance of a mile or two below the city, and is fast in the ice. No coal of any account was lost here, though several empty barges were carried As it is still raining, it is leared the ice will move again at any moment, when greater damage is expected. All the boats have steam up. If the Licking runs out first, it is feared the wharf will be swept clean; while, if the ice comes down from above first, the boats lying at the upper part of the wharf will sustain the shock, and the disaster might be general and serious. Men who have been close observers, say they have never known the situation to be more unfavor-able for our vessels here. [LATER.]

Estimated at $150,000 to $200,000. CINCINNATI, December 31 .- The damage roughly estimated as caused at this point, is put at from $150,000 to $200,000. There is about 19 feet of a depth of water. The flow of ice slacked about 5 o'clock this evening, then an hour later commenced running again, but at 9 o'clock the rapid rising of the river and retarded movement of the ice, indicated a gorge below at the mouth of the Great Mami. at the lower landing, and carried down the river and probably sunken. The Fifth street terryboat has been torn loose and taken down the river since dark; her fate is not known. The stern wheel steamer Kate Putnam, was struck at 7 o'clock and sunk in the water to her cabin. She is valued at $15,000, and wned by Capt.
